BRINGING THEM ON...

Jealousy is so viscous and vicious at times you wonder how the next generation will handle it.

You see a boy like Martin on his third championship baseball team (1 loss in those three years, two or so on a second-place team last year). He is probably one of the few.

And you see in him at 11 the mark of leadership, though he's not the long-ball hitter or the biggest kid. But he makes the big play, he starts or keeps the rally going, and, damn it, he looks like the quick mind and nimble frame he is. A toss of blond hair doesn't hurt for style.

You wish good things for youngsters like Martin. But he will earn his place. He can be given his head, his direction, but it is his to keep.

I may never get him on a serious tennis court. I may never get him inside a newspaper. He might want to sing. The future is his to choose.

He likes words. He once called me "incredible" at lunch. And at the time, it was one of the few compliments volunteered in months. He probably knew that.

Kids like Martin have the stuff. And I'm not going to turn his head toward some imitation of a previous generation. I had gall enough to break from earlier ones. He should have the right. I might even send him flying from the starter's gate if he'll let me.

He's going to learn it's difficult to live the winner as well as becoming one. Ignore the crowd, the rednecks and pipsqueaks, Martin is hearing. Ignore the hot air and acrimony. And worry if it is not there.

A boy like Martin can bring them on, if only he will not let them get him down.

Missing Teenagers Found Dead

SOMERVILLE

Two Somerville teenagers, missing since July 10, were found dead near Brenham Friday evening, the victims of a tragic one-car accident. Bodies of Freddie Lee Fleming Jr., 18, and Veronica Maldonado, 16, both of Somerville, were recovered from a totally demolished car that was found in a creek bed adjacent to the Santa Fe railroad tracks at the State Highway 36 Loop overpass. The car landed in the bottom of the creek bed into high weeds after missing the guard rail and falling off the overpass.

Rate Increase Denied

GEORGETOWN

The 30 percent rate increase asked by Lower Colorado River Authority was denied under the guidelines of the President's 90-day price freeze. But according to billing clerks at City Hall, LCRA is likely to press for the increase again in September. The city of Georgetown buys from LCRA for local distribution. Figures in Georgetown show a rather alarming increase in power usage—kilowatt hours jumped by one million from May to June of this year.

Shootout Nets Assault Charge

HEARNE

A Saturday afternoon shootout in front of the Hot Pants Inn in Hearne resulted in one man being hospitalized with an abdomen wound and a second being charged with assault with intent to murder. Leon Stoneham is in the Robertson County jail on the charge in lieu of $10,000 bond. Walter Redmon was taken to Hearne General Hospital and later transferred to Scott and White in Temple with a gunshot wound.

Caldwell Annexes Deanville School

CALDWELL

The Burleson County Board of school trustees took action to annex the Deanville Common School District to the Caldwell Independent School District effective immediately. The action followed an unofficial election held in the Deanville district on June 30 in which voters favored annexation in the Caldwell district over the Somerville district by a margin of 177 to 77.

Tax Evaluations Under Study

ROCKDALE

The Rockdale city council was told by two board of equalization members they felt property values on the city tax rolls were unequal to the extent that the entire rolls need revision. They suggested that the council employ a professional appraising firm valuations. During the discussion, an alderman noted that a reappraisal would boost a lot of valuations and a lot of taxpayers were going to howl.

City Plans Ambulance Service

BELTON

The Belton city council has initiated plans for a city-operated ambulance service, using two ambulances donated to the city by Heartfield Funeral Home. The funeral home will discontinue its privately operated ambulance service September 1. City manager outlined plans for the service which have come out of several weeks of study since the notification by the funeral home.

Right-On-Red Now Legal

It is now legal in Temple to make a right turn on a red light, according to Temple police. All traffic must first stop at a light, then proceed cautiously with the right turn as if the intersection were controlled by a stop sign. The law making a right on red legal throughout the state will be effective August 27.

Town Hall Meeting Lists New Ideas For City

Mayor Blake

A new city hall, additional streets, expanding city limits, new parks, housing, and other improvements for Cameron's future were listed Thursday evening during a town hall meeting held at Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Comments on these plans were offered by members of the city planning commission, who were seated at a head table along with council members and other city officials.

The meeting was led by A. W. McCullin, chairman of the planning commission. Members present included Miss Mildred Thornton, secretary; Monroe Fuchs, Lawrence Zoltz, Jim Camp, Paul Olbrich, Mrs. Lois Hill, Henry Ivey, and E. A. Bigbee. Council members included Zoltz, Lester Turner, Bob Clark, and Starrett Hickman.

Also at the head table were Mayor Gene Blake, Police Chief Felipe Martinez and Works Supt. Jim Hale.

"This is entirely a new ballgame," McCullin told the group of about 50 residents at the meeting. He was speaking of the Annual Arrangements program for which the city is eligible, and about revenue sharing funds.

The meeting was held to air plans and ideas drawn up by the city's planning commission and the city council. Cameron was selected as one of 129 towns to participate in a pilot Annual Arrangements program, and the commission drew up plans for spending some $123,000 which will be available when funds are released.

McCullin said programs are changing "every day," and Cameron is "in for good things ahead."

Mayor Gene Blake emphasized that "we are working for future generations" in making the community livable and continuing to make it better.

He noted that the first revenue sharing funds received had no "strings attached," and has been spent to purchase new city equipment. Incoming funds, however, must be spent according to guidelines issued by the federal government.

Blake reported progress on street work downtown and said he hoped merchants and residents would be patient until the work is finished.

Monroe Fuchs

Monroe Fuchs spoke on streets and city limits, showing a chart of the city with proposed streets for future use. The street committee's plans are to complete work on streets in the urban renewal area to 4th Street.

A loop to relieve congestion was shown going around the industrial area and ending at SH 36. Fuchs said the city needs an assessment program for paving numerous streets in the city, and needs to consider annexing land on the west and north of the city. He also noted that space inside the city should be utilized.

Lawrence Zoltz

Capital improvements in the fields of water and sewage, drainage, and city hall were outlined by Lawrence Zoltz, chairman of that committee.

He said the small, 2-inch water lines in the city should be replaced with larger lines, and an additional 250,000 gallon water tank is needed. He also noted that a backup water system of deep wells should be considered.

Sewer lines should be expanded to serve all areas of the city, and attention should be given to storm drain systems in two sections of the city, Zoltz continued.

Plans for a new city hall called for the building to be constructed west of the public library, with the present city hall being used to expand police department equipment and the fire department meeting hall expanded. More jail cells should be added to the city jail, he said.

E. A. Bigbee

Codes and ordinances are necessary for a clean, growing town. E. A. Bigbee, city inspector, told the group. He noted that urban renewal started a turnaround for a town that once resembled "a ghost town." But piles of junk and weeds still mar the appearance of Cameron and codes and ordinances need to be enforced fairly, Bigbee said.

Jim Camp

On the subject of parks and playgrounds, Jim Camp outlined plans for several parks to be included in the program, along with improvements to the present parks. An area east of the junior high school receives priority for a new park, consisting of some six to nine acres of land. Other areas under study include land near the football field and the Newton property in north Cameron.

Paul Olbrich

The committee on housing sets the priority of cleaning off dilapidated housing to make lots available for new building, according to Paul Olbrich, chairman of the committee. He reported that additional housing units are not in the mill at the present time, and there is a real shortage of decent housing in the city.

Henry Ivey

Henry Ivey, FHA county supervisor, outlined loans available for building, repairs, and rehabilitation of present homes. He explained eligibility and loans available at this time.

Supt. Dodson

Supt. D. R. Dodson, speaking in place of Dana Kestenbaum, reported on school board action to improve the school system.

A delegation of women from the south side of town pleaded for sewer lines to be run to their section of town. They were told the problem was first in line on the planned program, and sewer lines would be run to the section.

Answering a resident's question, Zoltz said additional drainage systems would cost about $100,000 each.

Another resident spoke on the need of clearing out "blind spots" at intersections, which present danger to motorists. Bigbee said such spots should be reported to him for action by the city.

Fete Names Officers, Reports Expense, Profit

An annual membership dinner, introduced new officers for 1974 Folk Fete headed by Charles Hundle Wednesday at KC Hall.

About 50 directors, officers and wives attended the Fete banquet at which outgoing President Charles Kunz thanked the entire Cameron community for aid in putting over the fourth Fete as "an unquestioned success."

Other new officers at head table included William Kelm first vice president, Jim Woodum second vice president, Ladis Marek, Jr., secretary and L. W. Stroup treasurer.

Kunz estimated that about 20 food booths alone took in about $10,000 above the Fete's gross income of $4,427.47, reported by Mrs. Janice Turner, outgoing Fete secretary.

Expenses ran $3,770.39, but which included construction of additional booth equipment worth an estimated $500 for use in later Fetes.

Net income was $657.08, which added to $656.11 brought forward from 1972, showed a balance of $1,313.19 at mid-July.

Major items of income were armory admissions of $1,622.31 and beer and soda sales of $1,667.16.

Major expense items were wholesale beer and soda purchases of $1,044.97 and booth supplies and electrical work of $823.23.

An estimated crowd of more than 10,000 attended the two-day Fete and downtown Fete parade, officials said.

Hundle said discussions had already been held on extending Fete to a third day. Comparisons to experience at Wurstfest in New Braunfels showed that Folk Fete also developed into an established celebration the fourth year.

Hundle heads the list of one-year directors which includes Mrs. Edward Demerson, Mrs. Frank Mikulec, Mrs. Denson Rubac and Wayne Wieser.

Two-year directors are: Dana Kestenbaum, Frank Luecke, Stewart Perkins, J. K. Wilkerson, Kelm and Stroup.

Three-year directors are: Mrs. Marcelino Flores, Mrs. Carroll Green, Mrs. Skip Hobbs, Monroe Marek, Woodum and Marek.

(Folk Fete, Inc. is a non-profit corporation).

RUBBLE is being cleared away from the south side of the former Magna-Craft building in preparation for a future new county jail.

Accidental Shot Kills Woman

A ruling of accidental gunshot has been made in the death of Nell Vina Randle, 38, of Maysfield.

Mrs. Randle died early Thursday morning at the home of Burditt Pittman after she apparently knocked over a 410 gauge shotgun standing in the kitchen.

Investigators said she apparently was cleaning the kitchen at the time of the accident. The ruling was made by Justice of the Peace William Pagach.

Mrs. Randle is survived by two children and her parents. Her body was taken to a Hearne funeral home.

Energy Crisis May Be Brewing New Dark Age

By Alexander Chancellor

LONDON

Reuter-The spectre of a new "Dark Age" is haunting the industrial nations of the world.

Visions of energy starvation in the 1980s causing even the collapse of western civilization, are no longer the imaginings of a few eccentrics.

They are disturbingly supported by statistics and by the predictions of authoritative international bodies in both Europe and the United States.

The energy committee of the European parliament declared recently that the lamps will quite literally go out all over Europe by 1980 unless something conclusive was done.

President Nixon has warned that the United States must get used to the idea of periodic energy shortages in the years to come.

The Americans, in fact, are already experiencing a preview of the much-feared drama, with nearly half America's 200,000 gasoline stations reduced to rationing or shorter opening hours because of inadequate oil-refining capacity.

Astonished Americans, who are unaccustomed to energy shortages, have been receiving a stream of energy-saving advice from the administration—drive more slowly, walk more, switch off lights, and use less home heating and air conditioning.

In California, a motorist recently shot to death a garage attendant who refused him a second tankful of gasoline in one day.

Despite efforts to develop new forms of power, oil is the world's principal energy source and is likely to remain so for many years.

Supplies of oil will eventually dry up, but experts generally agree that there is still enough of it underground to meet the world's demands for a considerable time.

"World proved reserves of crude oil are more than ample to satisfy projected needs for the foreseeable future," the oil committee of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) said in a recent report.

The 24-nation OECD comprises the world's richest non-communist nations and is the forum chosen by them to work out a common policy to deal with the threat of energy shortages.

Estimates of "proved reserves," meaning commercially extractable oil known to exist beneath the earth, vary between about 80 billion and 90 billion tons.

But the development of new extraction techniques and new oil strikes could increase these reserves at least four times to more than 300 billion tons, the OECD committee reports.

So although the world currently consumes about 2.5 billion tons of oil a year and demand is expected to rise by an annual eight per cent, a shortage of reserves is not the immediate problem.

The burning question is how to guarantee reasonably-priced and reliable supplies so as to keep the wheels of western industry turning, the lights burning, and the car engines running.

This will not be easy, for in the past few years, a revolution has taken place in the world's oil industry.

The oil surpluses of the 1960s have changed almost overnight into a situation of under-production and the balance of power has shifted decisively from the big western oil companies to the oil-producing states.

A buyer's market has become a seller's market, and most of the world's oil—some 60 per cent of it—comes from a handful of once backward states in one of the world's most unstable regions, the Middle East.

Western Europe already depends for 50 per cent of its oil supplies on the Middle East, and Japan for 85 per cent. Their dependence on the area is expected to grow, despite the exploitation of new oil reserves in Europe's North Sea.

'Let Good Civic Times Roll'...

Some new projects surfaced in presentations by speakers at the Town Meeting the other night.

Such things came up like a new city hall, additional parks near Cameron Junior High, near Yoe Campus, in the Newton Lake vicinity, broader water-sewer systems and another new quarter-million gallon overhead water tower.

A new city hall would mean a new police department, fire department and jail facility as well and would find location in several prospective spots around the downtown area.

Start on bigger water lines has been made downtown. Broader sewer service would reach areas now unserved, except for water.

Housing is going in as fast as mortgage money is available, for less expensive housing and middle income types.

It would seem multiple units of tri-plex or even apartments will be the solution or developments of modular construction or even pre-stressed concrete types poured on site, like factory or warehousing.

An era of expansion has set in with discussions like these because the increments of growth now abound. It is now an area development, as opposed to what was a building by building and block by block change downtown.

The thinking is ahead and big enough to deal with the future. One could not help but visualize new neighborhoods out of old while one speaker was showing possible by-pass routes and discussing the numerous vacant lots untended because city taxes are nil or negligible.

A lot is happening. A lot will happen. First item is a park near Cameron Junior High.

"Let the good 'civic' times roll."

See What We Mean...

Here come the graders: down First Street to remove old surface, old curbs which soon will be replaced. And then new sidewalks.

Now that a heavy percentage of downtown buildings are removed, remodeled or rebuilt, the dusty business of putting in new streets, curbs and sidewalks has begun.

Work is progressing on the Mall block as curb lines for parking and walkways go in and surface fill dirt goes into place.

Workmen have about finished putting in a new 10-inch waterline down First Street, which was the reason resurfacing started there.

We'll look out from Herald offices one day and see new six-inch curblines, a new mall, new sidewalks and convince ourselves all this was worth it. Cough! Cough!

If you've never seen a new downtown built, drive through Cameron any day the rest of the summer and fall. You'll see what we mean.

Constitutional Revision Is Well Underway In Austin

The once in a century effort to revise the Texas Constitution is well underway.

The Texas Constitutional Revision Commission, charged with studying the need for constitutional change, has entered the decision-making stage of its program.

The result will be a report to the legislature November 1. The legislature will meet as a Constitutional Convention in January, 1974, to act on that report. The revised document will be submitted to the people for their approval in an election.

The process actually started in the general election last November, when voters approved Amendment Four, which authorized revision of the 97-year-old Constitution and provided a procedure for doing so.

The 1972 amendment was the first time since 1876 that Texas voters have agreed to look hard at the framework of their state's government. The last, and only other, call to a Constitutional Convention was overwhelmingly rejected by the voters in 1919.

The 1972 amendment provided for a Constitutional Revision Commission, which the 63rd Legislature promptly created.

The Commission has 37 members, selected by the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the House, the attorney general, the state Supreme Court Justice and the Chief Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The commissioners, who were nominated by the public, come from all areas of the state and represent a broad spectrum of occupations, interests and political persuasions. Judge Robert W. Calvert, of Austin, former Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, was named to head the Commission.

Mrs. Malcolm Milburn, of Austin, civic worker and former vice-chairman of the state Republican Party, was appointed vice-chairman.

Jim Ray, former executive director of the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, is executive director.

The Commission has offices at 802 Brazos, Austin.

The Commission was ordered by the legislature to seek public opinion on the Constitution by holding six public hearings. One of the first official acts by the body was to expand the number of hearings to 19.

In May and June, the Commission travelled across the state, holding one-day hearings in every major geographic area. The hearings, which ended in Austin June 29, produced a wealth of testimony on the content of a revised Constitution.

Letter Series Set For New Parents

A newsletter series designed to help first-time parents cope with the problems of child-rearing has been started by the Office of Early Childhood Development, Texas Department of Community Affairs.

"Pierre the Texas Pelican," a four-page newsletter focusing on early childhood development and positive mental health, will be mailed beginning in July to Texas parents who had their first baby as of April 1, 1973.

Narrated by the cartoon character "Pierre," the 28-part series starts with the one-month-old child and ends at age six. The series will be mailed monthly until the child is one year old and less frequently as the grows older.

"Pierre" talks to parents about what to expect in the baby's growth and behavior. With illness and other physical health problems "Pierre" refers parents to their family doctor.

The series was first developed in Louisiana, where it has been used for 25 years, by former executive director of the Louisiana Association for Mental Health, Dr. Loyd Rowland. Rhode Island, Nebraska and New Jersey as well as Germany have used the series.

The Texas Association for Mental Health is cooperating with OECD in mailing Pierre. Names of new babies are obtained through the State Health Department's Infant Immunization Surveillance Program.

Because Bexar and Harris Counties have their own immunization surveillance programs, "Pierre" will not go to first-time parents in

Food Retailers Face

Food Stamp Program

Food retailers in counties entering the Food Stamp Program will have to be authorized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture before they will be eligible to accept food stamp coupons.

This word comes from Martin D. Garber, Dallas, administrator of the West-Central regional office of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

Under the Food Stamp Program, which is scheduled to be operating in all Texas counties by the end of the year, needy families are certified for the program by the State Department of Public Welfare.

Families then pay a certain amount of money, depending on income, resources and other factors, for food stamps.

those two counties until September, when birth record information from those areas can be phased into the system.

The series has been endorsed by the Council on Mental Health of the American Medical Association and by the Texas Pediatric Society.

GIANT COMBINES

Modern farm machinery is helping farmers to do more work than ever before. Giant combines today harvest enough wheat in just one hour to make 20,000 loaves of bread while automatic bale wagons allow just one operator to stack over 3,000 bales of hay in one day.

FARM TAXES

American farmers in 1972 paid $2.8 billion in farm real estate taxes and another $2.5 billion in federal and state income taxes.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Group Therapy

What is group therapy? Well, people get together in groups for many different reasons. Their purpose may be anything from playing a game of basketball to learning to speak Chinese.

But, in the mental health sense, a therapy group is made up of people who aren't happy with their lives or who aren't doing as well as they could because of problems involving their thoughts and feelings.

Their purpose is to learn to get along better with themselves and others and to develop healthier, more effective ways of coping with life's difficulties and challenges.

"Group Therapy" is a term for the process they go through as they and their leader work together to reach the goal.

Group therapy is not really new, although it has come to major attention fairly recently. Medical historians trace its beginnings back to 1905 when a Boston physician brought tuberculosis patients together in a weekly class that included some discussion of personal problems.

During the 1920's and 30's several psychiatrists experimented with group methods for treating mental and emotional difficulties. It wasn't until after World War II, however, that the idea and practice of group therapy really spread.

Today, it is highly popular and widespread—almost too much so, some believe. But what are the facts about group therapy? What kinds of people enter it? What goes on in a therapy group?

Can group therapy be harmful? How can a person considering group therapy avoid pitfalls?

Because of the interest in and importance of the subject, the National Institute of Mental Health has recently issued a new, authoritative information folder which you can obtain free for the asking. It covers the above and other questions.

Write for "Facts About Group Therapy" to the National Institute of Mental Health, Room 15C-17, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Geneva Men Start Red Cross

By Adrienne Farrell

GENEVA—Just over a century ago, a committee of five Geneva gentlemen pledged itself to organize international help for the wounded on the battlefield. Its founder was a young Swiss business, Henry Dunant, who came by chance on the field of Solferino after a bitter battle between the French, Piedmontese and Austrian armies. Filled with horror and pity at the wounded, abandoned on the field to die of gangrene, he embarked in Geneva on the creation of an organization for their relief. His initiative led to the formation of Red Cross societies in every country and the adoption of international conventions on the treatment of wounded and prisoners of war. The Geneva committee of five eventually became the 25-member all-Swiss International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) which is responsible for supervising the 1949 Geneva convention on prisoners of war and protection of civilians in armed international conflict. But over the past few years the ICRC has found itself burdened by a weight of problems it was constitutionally unable to bear. The 25 member body served both as legislative and executive, young and energetic Marcel Naville, who has just ended a four-year-term of office, ran into a host of troubles, ranging from questions of Red Cross mediation in hijackings, international terrorism and treatment of guerrilla prisoners. In the Munich Olympic games tragedy last September, when Arab gunmen killed 13 Israeli hostages, the Red Cross was not asked to intervene by either side. But in an earlier incident when a Belgian airliner was hijacked to Tel Aviv by Arab guerrillas, the ICRC acted as mediator and was criticized by the Arabs when Israeli troops stormed the aircraft while an ICRC delegate was standing nearby and killed two of the hijackers.

Seven Guidelines Offered To Keep Meat On Table

Beef-hungry consumers can follow seven guidelines to keep meat on the table in spite of the "shrinking buck," a livestock marketing specialist said this week. Dr. Edward Uvacek Jr. with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, cited careful spending of meat dollars as the key. --Compare meat cuts on a cost-per-serving from a pound of ground beef, but only two and a half servings from a sirloin steak. For them to be equal on a cost-per-serving basis--when sirloin brings $1.49 per pound, ground beef could sell for as much as $2.38 per pound," the specialist explained. "A brisket at $1.19 a pound will cost as much per serving as a boneless chuck at 99 cents a pound, or short-ribs at 79 cents a pound. "Boneless chuck roast at $1.09 a pound and shortribs at 88 cents a pound have exactly the same cost per serving, but a T-bone steak at $1.59 a pound costs twice as much per serving as liver at the same price." U v a c e k also advised homemakers--when substituting other meats such as broiler chickens for beef--to remember that most of them have very low servings per pound. "For example, a ready-to-cook broiler at 59 cents a pound is slightly more expensive per serving than brisket or rolled rump at $1.29 a pound." --Don't pay extra for minor conveniences. "Pre-formed ground beef patties are pretty-but expensive. The amount of work in making a hamburger patty is pretty negligible. "Similar types of conveniences--at a cost--are built into such items as ten-derized or formed steaks, cubed stewing beef, breaded chicken-fried steaks and precooked cuts. Do the work yourself, and save a bundle." he added. --Carefully compare prices for beef cuts in different stores. "All retailers don't charge the same price for individual cuts. In fact, it's not unusual to have very substantial variations in retail prices between stores--even in a small town. "Shop around. Don't always buy your beef in the same old store, simply because that's where the watermelons are cheaper." --Get your money's worth in quality. "Unless you're an expert, the easiest way to insure consistent acceptability and quality is to buy only USDA Choice beef. "It's either labeled as such, or has a purple shield with the word 'Choice' inside of it, stamped on the outside of the meat cut. "Look for this before you buy. You could buy U. S. Good beef, but it's not as safe a bet in terms of quality." --Don't be ashamed to return an unsatisfactory piece of meat. "Most retailers, particularly larger chains, flaunt a money-back guarantee. Use it. If not completely satisfied, return it. Don't assume your cooking was bad. "In some cases, cooking can intensify the problem (like well-done steaks), but, in general, you need a good piece of beef to begin with." --Learn some of the basic cuts of beef. "Several different names are used for the same cut because of regional preferences. Just a little study will show you, for example, that a rib-eye steak is the same and probably cheaper than a Delmonico. "Similarly, a rib steak and a club steak are basically the same. Sirloin steak is a much more tender piece of meat than round steak. "Also, take a little time to learn the recommended cooking method for each cut--which should be broiled, braised, roasted, pot-roasted. It will pay--in satisfaction." --Buy on sales--usually the weekend sales will save you money. "Be cautious on double-stamp days and during mid-week, non-sales days. "Don't be ashamed of buying just the sales items at several stores that might be close to each other. It's your money--so make the most of it."

LET YOUR FAVORITE GARAGE OR SERVICE STATION CARE FOR YOUR CAR

We feel sure that most car owners are aware of the importance of preventative maintenance as far as their cars are concerned. A tune-up . . . a check-up . . . body repair when the rust first sets in will pay big dividends in the long run. A car is a comparatively large investment. It's well to protect it. That's why we suggest that you take it to your favorite garage or service station or back home to the new car dealer where you purchased it for regular service and check-ups.

pire waist gowns with white bodice and blue skirts. They carried nosegays of blue and white pompom mums and baby's breath.

Tropical Fish Become Business And Hobby

"We bought our first tank as a hobby about two years ago," said Wesley Crouch, who now has an enterprising business selling tropical fish and setting up aquariums.

The Crouches bought their tropical fish business about three months ago after a friend of theirs, who had it, decided to move to the country. "We had enjoyed our aquarium and thought it would be an interesting business and hobby," said Crouch.

"Now my wife sells the fish and I fix up the aquarium, if the people want it fixed up," said Crouch. The Crouches have quite an assortment of fish, aquariums, ceramic ornaments, and plants for the aquarium. "You can get the necessities - a ten gallon aquarium, pump, filter, gravel, charcoal and floss - for $14.99. The fish and ceramic ornaments you decide on are added to that."

The Crouches have a lot of their tropical fish shipped in, however, Mrs. Crouch is trying to raise mollies from the female mollies she has now. "With mollies you have to separate the babies from the mother as soon as they are born because the mother will eat them," said Mrs. Crouch.

In addition to mollies, they also have Betas, guppies, and angel fish, just to name a few. "The fish are priced according to their quality and grade. Betas are probably the most expensive and male Betas are more expensive than female Betas. But you can only put one male Beta to a tank because the males fight," said Mrs. Crouch.

"Our only problem with the fish is keeping the little children out of the aquariums. They just love the fish and sometimes they want to play with them," continued Mrs. Crouch. Mrs. Crouch is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Bowley. The Crouches have five children, two of which were foster children they are in the process of adopting.

Virginia Glenn was the wife of Edgar Allen Poe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Crouch "started their aquarium business as a hobby."

The Crouches have all materials needed to "outfit an aquarium."

ORIENTAL GARDENS

An oriental garden can be just the thing for landscaping a small lot, says a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. An oriental garden can provide a quiet retreat from the work-a-day world. Use groupings of three different shapes—upright, rounded or leaning, and flat or spreading—and repeat them throughout the garden. Emphasize materials that do not change, such as rocks, evergreens and soil or pebbles. Water is also an important element.

Volunteers Hold Convention

Voluntary action appears to be rapidly becoming a part of the American way of life. VISTA and the Peace Corps are two outstanding examples and many more can be thought of.

In the Lone Star State a group of volunteers will soon be coming together for their Sixth Annual Statewide Convention.

This group is different, however. They are young men and women age fourteen to eighteen who serve hospitals on a voluntary basis, after school and on week-ends. They are the junior volunteers serving in the hospitals of Texas.

The Sixth Statewide Junior Hospital Volunteer Convention will be July 24 in Galveston at the Moody Center. The Convention carries as its theme "Launch Your Career As A Junior Volunteer" and will last until July 26.

The Convention is sponsored annually by the Texas Hospital Association's Council on Hospital Auxiliaries and the Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries.

Joe Nichols, M.D., of Atlanta, Texas is the keynote speaker for the meeting.

ASAP To Participate In Institute

BELTON

The Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project, an agency of the Central Texas Council of Governments, will be a participant in the 16th Annual Institute of Alcohol Studies, to be held July 22-26 on the University of Texas at Austin campus.

Keynot speaker for the Institute will be Dr. Morris Chafetz, Director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Academy Award winning actress, Mercedes McCambridge, will also speak to participants of the Institute on July 23 at 7 p.m.

The 16th Annual Institute is sponsored by the Texas Commission on Alcoholism in cooperation with the University's Division of Extension. Theme of this year's meeting is "Epidemic '73: Paralysis or Mobilization?"

The Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project, along with the other Texas ASAPs from Dallas, San Antonio and Houston, will be featured in a demonstration and exhibit of materials and equipment.

The joint ASAP exhibit will include demonstrations of breath testing equipment, multi-media presentations, and static displays of ASAP materials.

Accent on Health

Heavy rainfall throughout Texas is producing widespread mosquito production, and a lot of the problem may be occurring in your own back yard, says the Texas State Department of Health.

It only takes a little standing water and some adult mosquitoes to bring on the pain and discomfort--and sometimes disease from mosquitoes.

All mosquitoes need water in which to pass their early life stages. Adult flying mosquitoes frequently rest in grass, shrubbery or other foliage but they never develop there.

But give mosquitoes water and they'll multiply. Some mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water where they hatch in a day or two. Other mosquitoes lay their eggs in old tires, tin cans, or other water-holding containers in which they may remain unhatched for weeks or until they are covered with water.

With both types of mosquitoes, the wigglers or larvae grow quickly and turn into tumblers or pupae. Soon the skin of the tumbler splits open and out climbs another hungry mosquito.

The director of the State Health Department's Vector Control Division, Kenneth C. Lauderdale, says that in addition to being pests, mosquitoes can be dangerous. Such diseases as encephalitis, yellow fever, dengue fever and malaria are common diseases spread by the flying insect. They are big health problems in other parts of the world.

While mosquitoes are a threat to health and bodily comfort, there is something that you as an individual can do to ease the situation, says Lauderdale.

Lauderdale calls this the Ten Commandments of Home Mosquito Control. They are:

1. Empty, remove, cover or turn upside down any receptable that will hold water--particularly old bottles and tin cans.
2. Change water and scrub vases holding flowers or cuttings twice each week--or grow cuttings in sand.
3. Discard old tires or store them indoors.
